Isaac Julien, Lessons of the Hour (still) (2019).

Isaac Julien pays homage to Abolitionist hero Frederick Douglass in this ten-screen film installation, which explores his relationship with a number other major figures—mostly women—including suffragist Susan B. Anthony. Shot using 4K technology in Washington, DC, Scotland, and England, the piece includes reenactments of speeches Douglass gave at the Royal Academy of Arts in London, filmed in the institution’s period rooms.
